NATIVE CRIME PREVENTION INVENTORY

INTRODUCTION

The Native population of Manitoba constitutes three groups: registered treaty Indians who have legal status under Federal law; non-status Indians not accorded legal status by Federal law; and Metis who are people of a mixed Indian and European descent. There are approximately 50,000 status Indians, 5,000 non-status Indians, and 80,000 Metis in Manitoba.

This document lists a number of organizations with a wide range of activities. These listings are constructed for initial consultations with persons or agencies concerning the issues of crime prevention as pertaining to Natives.

A number of organizations are listed according to the leadership of these agencies or communities in order to acquire the maximum amount of co-operation in any future consultations. Various leaders or directors may wish to delegate responsibility for crime prevention to others in their organization.

A description of the organizations and their resources accompany address and telephone information. It is difficult, however, to compile an accurate listing of personnel due to staff changes, new priorities in Native organizations, and the funding of certain programs.

ALCOHOLISM SERVICES

The relationship between alcohol and crime suggests a number of agencies who service Native people would provide valuable information in the area of crime prevention. Most of the services listed below are Native organizations but some non-Native organizations have been included because 50% or more of their clientele are Native.

MANITOBA INDIAN BANDS

Native communities employ a number of individuals who act in various capacities at the local level. At the present time, there is very little activity in crime prevention. However, these individuals and their programs were selected on the basis of their potential involvement with people engaged in criminal activity. The areas selected were the National Native Alcohol and Drug Program; Native Child and Family Service Agencies; Fine Option or Alternative Measures Programs; Youth Justice Committees; Community Participation Agreements (Probation); Honary Probation Officers; Probation Officers (resident); and Band Constables. Recreation directors were also considered but very few organized recreation programs exist on reserves. Other individuals in programs such as health and education are not listed but should be considered in any future efforts to initiate crime prevention in Native communities.

The Chief as the leader of each community should be the first person approached in regard to crime prevention.

MANITOBA METIS|NON-STATUS COMMUNTIES

Metis|Non-Status communities are often difficult to identify due to mixed populations. A number of communites, however, can be set out as Metis|Non-Status sites. Most of these communities are relatively small in population (under 500). Several Metis|Non-Status communities are immediately adjacent to Indian reserves.
